

Start date	End date	Description of catastrophe	Lloyd's code
22 Nov 2000		Panamsat, Galaxy VII satellite rendered a total loss when back-up spacecraft control processor failed (following primary processor failure on 14 June 1998) whilst satellite in geostationary orbit.	00L
20 Nov 2000		Earthwatch Inc, Quickbird 1 satellite total loss when, following launch from Plesetsk Cosmodrome Northern Russia, the Cosmos 3M launch vehicle failed to install the satellite in its intended orbit.	00K
05 Nov 2000		UK storms.	00J
31 Oct 2002		Singapore Airlines Boeing 747-400, 9V-SPK, flight SQ006 Taipei-Los Angeles crashed on take-off. 78 of 179 on board killed.	00G
29 Oct 2000	31 Oct 2000	UK storms.	00F
12 Oct 2000	17 Oct 2000	Storms and flooding in north east Italy and Switzerland.	00M
27 Aug 2000		Satellites Mexicanos, Solidaridad I satellite rendered a total loss in orbit following second on board processor (SPC2) shut off.	00H
25 Jul 2000		Air France Aerospatiale / BAe Concorde, F-BTSC, crashed at Gonesse, near Paris shortly after taking off from Charles de Gaulle airport, killing 100 passengers, 9 crew and 4 persons on the ground.	00E
13 May 2000		S.E. Fireworks-Explosion at fireworks warehouse. Enschede, Holland	00D
11 May 2000		Aces International Ltd, Garuda 1 satellite suffered a partial loss due to a performance anomaly in the L-band subsystem, discovered during in-orbit testing	00N

15 Mar 2000	Malaysia Airlines, Airbus A330, 9M-MKB rendered a constructive total loss as a result of substantial wing main spar and fuselage damage sustained after landing at Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.	00P
12 Mar 2000	ICO F1 Satellite rendered a total loss when the launch vehicle suffered an anomaly shortly after launch.	00C
31 Jan 2000	Alaska Airlines MD83, N963AS, operating flight 261 Puerto Vallarta (Mexico) - San Francisco - Seattle, crashed into sea 40 miles North West of Los Angeles, California, USA, with 83 passenger and 5 crew fatalities	00B
30 Jan 2000	Kenya Airways A310, 5Y-BEN, operating flight 431 Abidjan - Lagos, crashed into sea 2 miles off coast of Abidjan, Ivory Coast, with 169 fatalities and 10 survivors	00A