

What are the Market Charity Awards?

Lloyd's Market Charity Awards are donations to charities supported by individuals from across the Lloyd's market. The awards are run by Lloyd's Charities Trust, a grant making charity which provides charitable donations on behalf of the Lloyd's market.

Donations are given to charities supported by individuals working in the market in recognition of their fundraising and voluntary work, and to charities that have given invaluable support to those in the market whose lives have been affected by difficult circumstances.

In 2020 donations of up to £25,000 will be awarded to charities in direct response to the significant funding gap that they are facing due to the impact of COVID-19.

Who can apply?

Applicants must be a permanent employee working in the Lloyd's market (employed by managing or members' agents or brokers) on the date that the application is made and, if approved, when the award is made on 1 September 2020.

Applicants need to demonstrate direct and sustained personal engagement with their nominated charity during the past 12 months, for example as a volunteer, fundraiser, trustee or beneficiary of services provided.

In contrast to previous years anyone in the market may apply, regardless of if/when you previously won a Lloyd's Market Charity Award. The size of the donation made will be dependent upon the size of the charity applied for and their ability to manage the donation.

Corporation employees are not eligible to apply in 2020 as other funding opportunities have been made available to them.

Which charities are eligible?

For the purposes of these awards, the trustees will be particularly looking for applications on behalf of:

- Charities or Community Interest Companies (CICs) that benefit from the active involvement of a person or people working within the Lloyd's market;
- Charities that have supported the applicant during difficult times; or
- Smaller, local charities who might struggle to receive funding.

The trustees will not make these awards to:

- Organisations that are not registered charities, or non-UK registered charities (except at the occasional discretion of trustees);
- Political parties or lobbying organisations;
- Grant-making bodies to make grants on our behalf;
- The promotion of religion or other beliefs;
- Individuals, including student grants, bursaries, medical costs or financial assistance;

- Applications towards the personal expenses of individuals participating in fundraising events, such as overseas treks, entry fees, sponsorship or any other costs associated with fundraising activities; and
- Organisations whose objectives might be deemed to be detrimental to the objectives of the Lloyd's market.

How are the applications assessed?

Applications will be reviewed by the trustees of Lloyd's Charities Trust in August – trustees are drawn from both inside and outside the Lloyd's market. You will be informed whether your application has been successful on 1 September 2020.

Decisions regarding eligibility of applicants or beneficiaries, or interpretation of any of the other rules of the Scheme will be at the discretion of the trustees. Trustees will be looking for applications which meet one or more of the criteria above and will seek to make awards to reflect the diversity of the applications and the market itself. The trustees' decision is final.
