Our history and building

The Lloyd's Building at One Lime Street, London EC3M 7HA, is a Grade 1 listed internationally renowned building, designed by Richard Rogers & Partners. It took eight years to build and was opened by Her Majesty The Queen in 1986. 33,510 cubic meters of concrete, 30,000 square metres of stainless-steel cladding and 12,000 square metres of glass were used during the construction.

The building is an outstanding venue for both work and events and boasts spectacular views: its radical design features external lifts and ducts, helping earn it the nickname 'the Inside-Out Building'. Today the building is overlooked by many of the City's newer skyscrapers, including the Walkie-Talkie at 20 Fenchurch Street and Rogers' newest project, the Leadenhall Building.

The Lloyd's building has fully adaptable meeting rooms, 12 external scenic lifts, 3 internal lifts, and offers first-class catering services and state-of-the-art technology facilities. It is served by mainline stations along with excellent tube and bus services.

We are here to help

Our facilities

The building facilities enable anyone, regardless of ability, to move freely within the building. Lloyd's is committed to treating people fairly by identifying and removing any unnecessary barriers to participation or progression.

Please let our friendly reception team know if there is any support that can be offered during your time at Lloyd's (such as access, assistance, alternative formats or disabled parking).

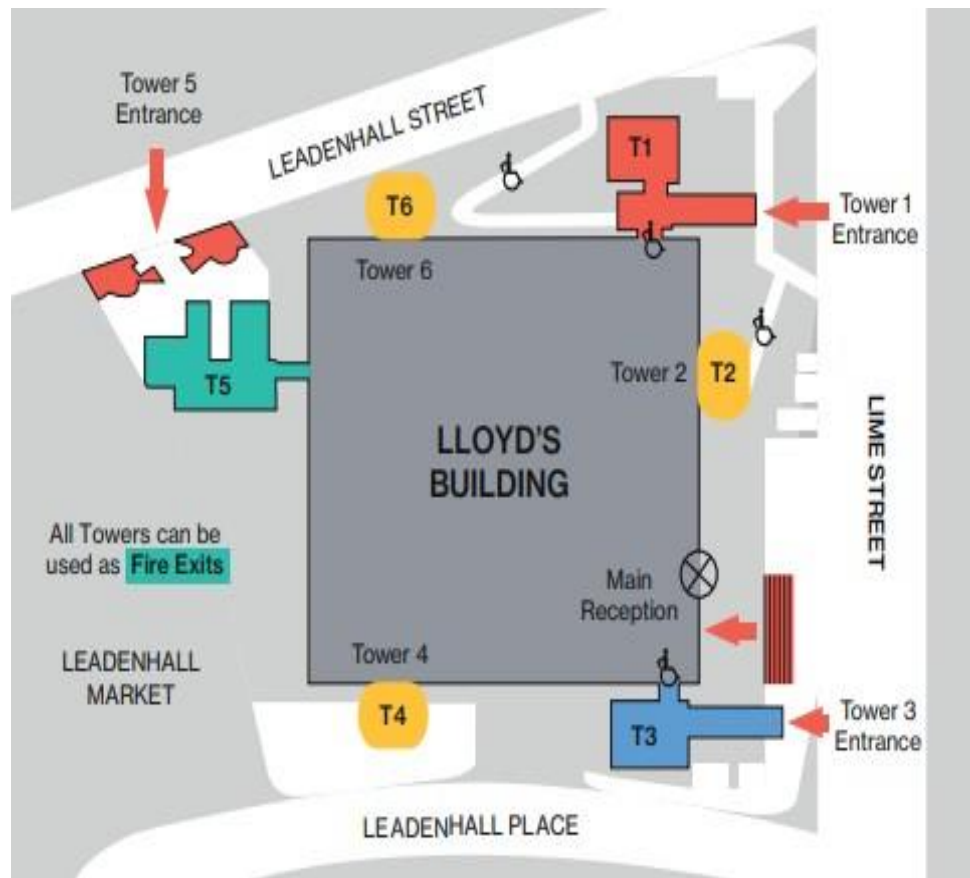

Our purpose

Sharing risk to create a braver world. Together for a braver future.

As we work with customers, partners, and communities around the world, we strive to build a more resilient, sustainable, and inclusive future. A braver future requires all of us to build it. Accessibility

Mobility Features

Collect your building pass and access pass at our main reception. By doing so, you will be able to use our lifts at the lower ground level.

Questions? A member of our security team will show you to the nearest lift.

All corridors are wide enough for unrestricted access throughout the building.

Running next to the main reception entrance there are dedicated access ramps for wheelchair users. They can be found by Tower 1 (Leadenhall Street to ground level) and by Tower 2 (Lime Street to Reception at lower ground level).

Our Lifts

There are 12 scenic (glass covered) lifts in the building, all wide enough for wheelchair use. Accessible lifts can be found at Tower 3 and Tower 1; and you will need an ID Pass.

An accessible lift is installed within the Old Library and can be accessed from the corridor leading to Tower 3 lifts.

At Tower 1 all the doors leading from the lift lobbies to the galleries are automatic. Apart from those leading onto the underwriting floors, an ID pass is required to enable access.

Hearing Impairments

We want to ensure your safety as well as comfort when welcoming you to our building.

For those with hearing impairments we provide a hearing loop at Reception.

Just ask!

What is an induction loop?

The induction loop is an assistive listening system that provides access to facilities for those with a hearing impairment. It takes a sound source and transfers it directly to a hearing aid without background noise, interference or acoustic distortion.

For your safety there are beacons installed in strategic locations throughout the building.

They illuminate when the fire alarm is activated.

Visual Impairments

You will find our lift control buttons are both tactile and Braille.

All our lifts have a telephone with direct communication to our security control room. Use this in the event of an emergency!

Do we allow assistance animals? Yes!

We also provide a spending pen; you will find this on the lower ground level between Tower 5 and 6.
